

RISO, Inc. Releases New High-Speed Digital Duplicator

SF9490 Delivers Both Speed and Resolution

Burlington, MA – December 13, 2017 – RISO, Inc. announces the North American release of the company's latest advance in digital duplicating, the SF9490 Digital Duplicator. RISO's newest cut-sheet digital duplicator produces high-volume documents quickly, easily, and economically at an unrivalled speed of up to 190 pages per minute (11,400 impressions per hour, including 11x17" sheet size). It is engineered for use in a wide range of printing environments, such as corporate, manufacturing and educational settings.

Combining true 600x600 dpi image quality with ultra-fast printing speeds, the RISO SF9490 produces sharp, clear images, even with fine lines and small characters. A large, interactive touchscreen panel enables easy review and point-of-printing editing of documents. Multiple image modes allow for the best duplication of your original, and the RISO iQuality System ensures optimum print quality and easy supply management. Swappable color cylinders provide over 70 available colors to choose from. The SF9490 also accommodates a wide range of paper weights and types, allowing you a range of options for your output.

RISO's SF9490 is ENERGY STAR compliant, using 95% less power than a toner-based system. Digital duplicators are more efficient than toner-based systems for larger print runs, so the bigger the job, the lower the overall cost per print. The device utilizes a new, environmentally-friendly formulation of ink, which dries instantly and is suitable for archive use. The SF9490 Digital Duplicator is now available from RISO and their sales channel network worldwide.
